

Pirates Capture Series Opener From Yanks, 6-4

Law And Face Allow 13 Hits

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The alert Pittsburgh Pirates knocked out the New York Yankee starter with three runs in the first inning Wednesday and clawed out a 6-4 victory in the opening World Series game despite 13 Yankee hits off Vern Law and Elroy Face.

When Law, the National League champ's 20-game winner, faltered in the eighth, in from the bullpen strode Elroy Face, the scrawny guitar-twanging relief ace. Taking over with two on and nobody out, Elroy slipped a sinker past Mickey Mantle for a third called strike, got Yogi Berra on a fly and struck out Moose Skowron.

Although Face was nicked for a two-run pinch homer by Elston Howard in the ninth, the Yankees never could generate enough steam to catch the fighting Bucs after that first inning.

Art Ditmar, the Yankees' starter, retired only one man before the hit-and-run scrappers from the National League finished him off.

for the day to the delight of 36,676 at ancient Forbes Field.

Ditmar went to the mound with a one-run lead, fashioned by Roger Maris' 330-foot home run into the upper deck in right in the Yankee first.

First Series Win
The American League champions, who finished the regular season with 15 straight victories, played like sleep walkers in the Pirates' first Series victory over the Yankees, who brushed them off in four straight in 1927.

Bill Virdon walked, stole second and sped all the way to third when nobody covered second base on Berra's throw. Then came Dick Groat, the league batting king, ramming a double to right scoring Virdon.

Bob Skinner bounced a hard shot past Bobby Richardson on the well-packed infield and Groat raced in with the run that put the Pirates ahead to stay.

Skinner stole second on Berra's high throw and sped home with the third run of the big inning.

BERRA DOUBLED OFF SECOND—Yankee catcher Yogi Berra dives headlong to second base but not in time as he is doubled off by Bob Skinner's fine throw to Pirate second baseman Bill Mazeroski in second inning of World Series opener. Play started when Bobby Richardson lined out to Skinner. Umpire is Bill Jackowski. (AP Wirephoto)

Rivals For White House Get Tougher In Attacks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon implied Wednesday that Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy hasn't the guts to talk the same way about civil rights in the South as in the North.

Sen. Kennedy implied that Nixon is indifferent to the problems of unemployment and what Kennedy said is an economic slowdown.

The rivals for the White House thus became tougher and tougher in their attacks as they roamed the land in search of votes.

Vice President Nixon — with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller at his side — plunged into New York City for a speech before 23,000 in the shadow of Rockefeller Center, for another talk before a lunch hour crowd of some 20,000 in the big city's garment district, for an appearance before a student audience at Fordham University, a Roman Catholic institution.

Levels Blast

His main theme in this civil rights-conscious city was the need to win equal rights for Negroes.

Nixon said he and his running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, "don't talk out of both corners of our mouths about civil rights." This, he said, was in contrast to Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

son, the Democratic vice presidential candidate.

"We should have a candidate who's got the guts to talk the same way North and South about civil rights," Nixon declared in an obvious slap at Kennedy, whom he repeatedly has accused of remaining silent about civil rights when in Dixie.

From New York—where 45 big electoral votes are at stake—Nixon went to Philadelphia for a big rally in Convention Hall.

In that Philadelphia speech, Nixon said Kennedy has made at least 10 speeches in Dixie but that "no where in the South has he squarely faced up to this issue (civil rights) since his nomination."

Kennedy bore down on unemployment and related issues in stumping Indiana, where factory layoffs are causing concern. He spoke of "Republican unemployment."

At Evansville, the Massachusetts Democrat said a million workers—33,000 in Indiana alone—have lost jobs because of Eisenhower administration policies backed by Nixon.

Contending Nixon tells Americans "you never had it so good," Kennedy said.

"I can assure you that if Mr. Nixon can travel across this great land and remain indifferent to the problems of unemployment and economic slowdown his vision will be no clearer and his awareness no greater from the White House in far away Washington."

The religious issue, which seemed to have been muted of late, was raised anew with these developments:

1. More than 150 prominent Roman Catholic laymen joined in a statement declaring a belief in separation of church and state. The document was labeled by its sponsors as nonpartisan and was signed by both Democrats and Republicans.

2. Glenn L. Archer, executive director of Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State said the Catholics' statement evades what he called the real religious issue — "the drive of the Roman Catholic bishops of the United States to secure tax support for their parochial schools and other institutions."

3. In Boston, the Rt. Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes Jr., bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts, said Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, "has clearly stated his willingness to abide by the tradition of separation between church and state, and I am willing to take him at his word."

Labor Party Wants Break In Relations

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP)—The Labor party demanded Wednesday night that Britain abandon nuclear arms, ease out of the Atlantic Alliance and break close associations with the United States.

Aimed at making Britain a neutralist power in the East-West struggle, the far-reaching policy was adopted at Labor's annual conference in defiance of party leader Hugh Gaitskell.

Sweat pouring down his face, Gaitskell went down fighting. In an emotional speech, he declared he would try to keep the party leadership to prevent the Socialist movement from falling apart.

The Laborites, who have been out of the government since 1951, have little influence on Britain's official policy. They can not dictate to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative government. And even within their own ranks bitter disagreement flared over the wisdom of nuclear disarmament.

The vote was a victory of the party left wing over Gaitskell's more conservative faction, which believes in strong ties with the West. Party leftists had the support of some big trade unions.

The party decision means Britain's nuclear policies, participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and U.S. bases on British soil will be attacked with new vigor by Laborites in Parliament. And Gaitskell's position as party leader is jeopardized.

But the Laborites gave Gaitskell their attention and frequently their applause. He lashed at the neutralist policy of the party left wing as an erosion of Western solidarity. He said it could only comfort "pacifists, neutralists and fellow travelers."

$5,100 Average Teacher Salary

HARRISBURG (AP)—The average salary for Pennsylvania school teachers last year was $5,100, Gov. David L. Lawrence's committee on education reported Wednesday.

This represented a sharp increase from the 1950 average of $2,920, although still below neighboring New York, Maryland, New Jersey, the committee noted in a second report on various phases of its comprehensive study of Pennsylvania education from kindergarten through college.

Other points made in the research report were that:

Nearly 80 per cent of Pennsylvania's teachers are college graduates.

Many small high schools are unable to utilize the talents of teachers trained for special subjects.

A large proportion of new teachers leave the profession within five years.

The report tide in the turnover in the profession with the state's average salary.

Starlings Could Have Caused Plane To Crash

BOSTON (AP)—Hundreds of dead starlings—on a Logan International Airport runway—may hold the key to New England's biggest airplane disaster that took 61 lives late Tuesday.

Gen. E. R. Quesada, federal aviation administrator, noted this possibility Wednesday as civil aeronautics officials began an investigation of the crash into the sea of a four-engine Eastern Air Lines Electra just after takeoff.

"We are convinced," the general said, "a large number of starlings were at the end of that runway when the plane took off. When these birds are ingested by a jet engine they can disrupt the delicate airflow of the engine and cause a stall."

72 Aboard

The big plane—with 67 passengers and a crew of five—had just taken off near twilight when it suddenly plunged into a narrow bay separating the airport and Winthrop—on Boston's North Shore.

The passengers were barely settled in their seats, their safety belts fastened. Most of them died in their chairs, the belts still in place.

Of the starlings, Crocker Snow, chairman of the Massachusetts Aeronautics Commission, reported that an ornithologist said tens of thousands of the little birds are migrating through Boston now. They come down on runways to get warm.

And, he added, those on the runways were alive Tuesday afternoon.

The plane was bound for Philadelphia, Charlotte, N.C., Greenville, S.C., and Atlanta.

Many of the passengers were Pennsylvania businessmen, some of whom had attended a shoe convention in Boston.

Also aboard were 15 newly enlisted Marines, bound for boot camp. For most of them it was their first plane ride. Twelve of them died.

The 11 survivors of the crash included both plane stewardesses. Many of the injured are in serious condition.

The captain, copilot and flight engineer died.

Document Found
A secret document was aboard the big jet, and for a time it was believed lost. It was found in its unopened envelope and turned over to the Air Force.

The Air Force said it did not know the identity of the person who found the papers. The document was a proposal for work to be done at a research center of the Burroughs Corp. Dated Tuesday, it was prepared by Albert E. Boyle, manager of subcontracts for the missile and electronics division of Radio Corp. of America.

It was addressed to John Wright of Paoli, Pa., who, with George Frankfield, had gone to RCA's plant at Burlington, Mass., to pick up the document. Both were listed among the identified dead.

Skindivers recovered six additional bodies from the sunken fuselage. Search continued for four others.

At sunrise Wednesday the tail section of the airliner was lifted out of water. Part of the fuselage, wings, engine and nose are nestled in the mud of shallow Winthrop Bay.

Driver's Exam Revision Would Affect All Ages

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state is considering a revision in its driver physical examination program, it was learned Wednesday.

Under the change, a segment of drivers of all ages—rather than just the oldest drivers, as originally planned—would be called in for the tests this fall and winter.

A final decision on the revision is expected Thursday and was reported by reliable sources to be just about final.

Gov. David L. Lawrence's executive secretary, Walter Giesey, said only that the change is under study and a decision is expected shortly.

Those drivers affected will be notified by letter when the 1961 license renewal applications are mailed out in November.

There would be no change in the present requirement that all new applicants pass the physical fitness tests before receiving their licenses.

When Lawrence announced his highway safety program last February, he said drivers who received their licenses prior to 1924 would be the first to come under the physical examination requirement, starting with the 1961 renewals.

The year 1924 was selected because prior to that year, the state required no tests of license applicants, not even the present competency tests.

Sources said two things prompted the revision:

First, many of the old license records were destroyed by the 1936 flood, which inundated part of the basement of the State Finance Building, where the Motor Vehicle Bureau is located, making it impossible to isolate the pre-1924 drivers.

Second, highway safety and health department officials said a cross-section of the driving population would give a better statistical analysis than confining the new examination to the oldest drivers.

Macmillan Heads Back To England

NEW YORK (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan left for home from the United Nations Wednesday night, hopeful of gradual progress "toward a more peaceful state of the world."

He left Idlewild Airport aboard a Royal Air Force four-engine jet plane, ending a 10-day visit to New York. His high-light was his address to the United Nations General Assembly and meetings with President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Good Morning!

You don't have to wait until any particular season of the year to can a certain brand of sour grapes.

Rollcall Lists 44 Absentees; Vote Is 45-5

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly overrode the Western big three Wednesday night and voted down an Australian proposal for a new big four summit conference "at the earliest practicable date."

The proposal was defeated by a vote of 45-5 with 44 abstentions. Only Britain, Canada, France and the United States joined Australia in vote for it. The nine-nation Soviet bloc abstained.

Australia had introduced the proposition as an amendment to a five-nation neutralist resolution expressing the hope that President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev "renew their contacts recently interrupted," with a view to negotiation on outstanding problems.

Prime Minister Nehru of India declared Wednesday that failure of the United Nations to press for an Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting at this moment of East-West tension would be dangerous, harmful and totally unjustifiable.

Earlier in the session, Australia denounced Soviet Premier Khrushchev Wednesday as a hypocritical latter-day Caesar trying to break up the United Nations and advance his influence by threats and violence.

The sizzling attack came as a tense struggle shaped up in the U.N. General Assembly over an apparently foredoomed neutralist attempt to bring President Eisenhower once again face to face with the Soviet leader.

Prime Minister Nehru of India, a leading and influential voice of neutralism, spearheaded the neutralist effort, demanding unanimous or near-unanimous passage of a five-nation neutralist resolution appealing for a two-man summit. Failure of the assembly to adopt it, he said, would be dangerous to the world's future.

Change 'Request'

But apparently reflecting sagging neutralist hopes, the sponsor nations watered down their original resolution, changing their "request" for an Eisenhower-Khrushchev conference to an expression of hope that one would take place. Apparently the best the neutralists hoped for, in view of the distaste for the idea expressed by both world leaders, was that the assembly would spread that expression of hope on the record.

Spirited debate over the neutralist attempt, occupying most of the assembly's morning time, was interrupted in the afternoon for a resumption of the policy debate.

It was then that Prime Minister Robert Gordon Menzies, in an address for that debate, let fly his heavy assault on Khrushchev, one of the strongest against the Communist chief thus far at this spectacular 15th General Assembly session. Menzies conferred with President Eisenhower in Washington Sunday.

'Disunited Nations'

"Mr. Khrushchev," the Australian told the assembly, "has sought to convert the United Nations into the disunited nations by dividing the nations—as ancient Gaul was according to Julius Caesar—into three parts, which he conveniently though perhaps not very accurately describes as the Communist world, the free democratic world (or as he might prefer to call it so as not to step outside the slogan line, the capitalist world) and the step outside the neutral world."

This was a reference to Khrushchev's proposal to scrap the office of the U. N. secretary-general and substitute a board of three veto-wielding members representing Communists, the democratic world, and the neutralists.

The result of Khrushchev's proposal, said Menzies, would be the "collapse of the United Nations executive machinery."

Referring to his talks with President Eisenhower, Menzies declared the President as determined to balk Communist attempts to extend their influence to the new African states. He said the President feels that "we are not to look at our new colleagues (the new U. N. members) as if they were voters to be collected or as pawns in a vast international game but as independent, coequal and free."

Church Group Favors State Separation

By JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of more than 150 Roman Catholic laymen Wednesday expressed belief in separation of church and state, declaring it is the "best guarantee of religious freedom and civic peace."

Their 700-word statement, voicing concern that Catholics had not made their position in this regard clear in the past, said: "Efforts which tend to undermine the principle of separation, whether they come from Catholics, Protestants or Jews, believers or unbelievers, should be resisted no matter how well-intentioned such efforts might be."

The petition was described by its sponsors as nonpartisan. Signers included many prominent names, both Democratic and Republican. The sponsors said it was a representative sampling of Catholic leaders in education, business, science, politics, labor and the arts.

The statement brought a reply from Glenn L. Archer, executive director of Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State. He said it "evades the real religious issue in this country today."

Youth Seized On Attempt To Bomb 'K'

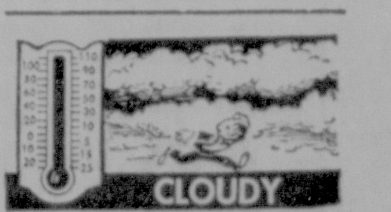

NEW YORK (AP)—An erratic youth broke off a pup-crawling tour early Wednesday to launch a feeble assault, beneath a full moon, upon U. N. headquarters. He carried a crude fire bomb he said was intended for Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The man, Richard Hogan, 22, was seized about 1 a.m. as he vaulted a railing and headed for a six-foot fence surrounding the U.N. grounds at 47th Street and First Avenue. He had a so-called Molotov cocktail—a soda bottle filled with gasoline, with a rag for a fuse.

With police on special alert for the U.N. General Assembly meeting, there was little chance of Hogan's reaching the U.N. buildings. As for Khrushchev, he was a mile away, at his Park Avenue residence.

Hogan was sent to Bellevue Hospital for mental examination after Thomas J. Hogan, a disabled World War I veteran, told Magistrate T. Vincent Quinn: "I'm the father of this defendant and when he drinks he gets himself into trouble."

Area Man Arrested In Jersey

THOMAS Edward Moore, 26, Buck Hill Falls, was arrested Tuesday by New Jersey State Police at Netcong and released on bail for a hearing in Sussex County Court on Oct. 28 on a charge of indecent exposure.

Police said they had complaints about Moore from Andover and from Roxbury Township, Morris County, over a period of several months.

They said Moore is a chauffeur who passed through the area during trips with his employer's limousine between Pennsylvania and New York City. Pennsylvania State Police cooperated in the investigation.

Governor Blasts Bill

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gov. Lawrence yesterday contrasted the nation's bill for having a good time with his bill for public education and called the comparison "shocking."

The governor, speaking to a convention of the National Consumer Finance Association, quoted from a report saying that Americans are spending $43 billion this year on amusement.

Against that enormous output, he continued, "America's estimated total expenditure for public education — kindergarten through twelfth grade in high school — will be slightly over $15 billion this year."

"Of that total, an estimated $4 billion is being spent on school construction."

Western Pocono Group To Elect

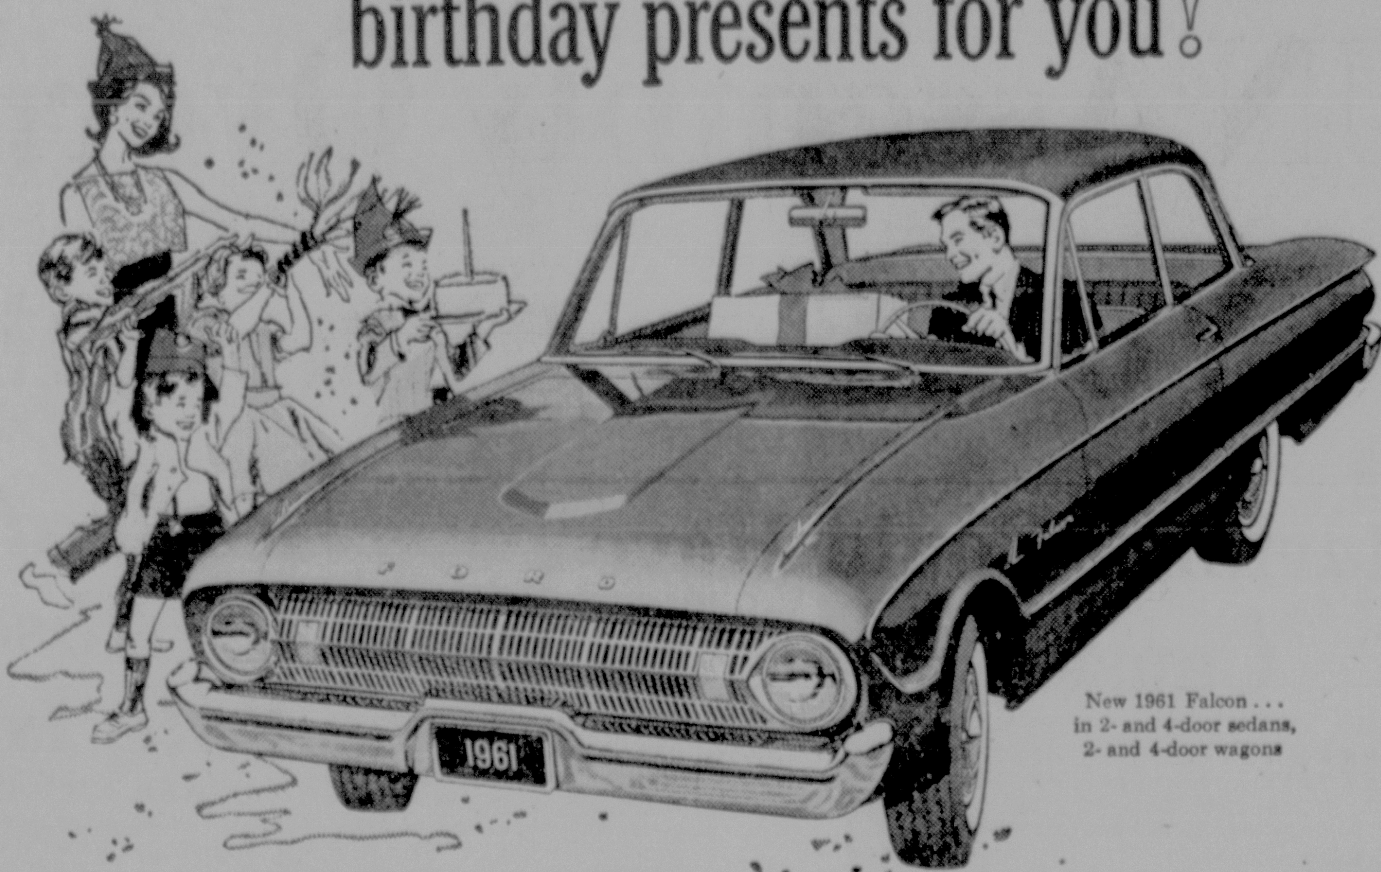

THE WESTERN Pocono Vacation Assn. held its first meeting of the season recently at Brodheadsville Inn with Witold Tilwick presiding.

It was decided that election of officers will be held at the November meeting. Rudy Mueller, Jim Gould, and Milt Booth were appointed for the nominating committee.

Ways and means of increasing membership in the association were discussed and after the regular business session, a supper was served by the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Bauer.

$5,000 Fire At Home In Tobyhanna

TOBYHANNA — Fire, which originated in a mattress in a second floor bedroom, yesterday caused approximately $5,000 damage to a home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Strimpa on this village's Main St. The home is owned by John Brody.

Coolbaugh Township firemen under the direction of Chief Lloyd Knecht answered the alarm at 2:10 a.m. The fire was out by 3:30 a.m., but firemen remained at the scene until 5 a.m. as a precautionary measure.

The Strimpas told firemen that they discovered a mattress on fire and threw it outside. Then they went downstairs to drink coffee and shortly afterwards discovered the upstairs in flames.

Furnishings Destroyed
They were able to remove some clothing, but the furnishings were destroyed.

Firemen said the blaze seemed to center in a clothes closet in the upstairs sleeping area. The upstairs was extensively damaged by fire and the remainder of the building suffered smoke and fire damage.

Knecht said he is continuing his investigation of the cause of the blaze.

A Real Urban Renewal

The Democratic Party platform plainly declared the problems of U. S. cities to be the responsibility of the Federal Government. And it proposed that a Cabinet-rank Secretary of Urban Affairs take in tow sprawling and slum-ridden metropolises.

While the Republican Party platform avoided such sweeping proposals, Vice President Nixon evidently agrees that the cities need the Federal Government to help them out. Mr. Nixon's approach is less direct than that of the Democrats; indeed, he warns against "a great new Federal bureaucracy" and the threat of "Federal dictatorship." But the Vice President's housing program, as it relates to the cities, differs only in degree from the Democratic master plan.

Despite his strictures against proliferating bureaucracy, Mr. Nixon would create a new Federal agency to advise U. S. metropolitan areas. And he would have cities accepting Federal grants develop "long-range, comprehensive land-use and transportation" plans for their metropolitan areas, with the paternal counsel of Washington.

So far as specifics go, Mr. Nixon offers little that the Democrats do not top. His proposals are most remarkable in that they amount to bipartisan acceptance of vastly greater Federal responsibility for a host of local problems.

Yet where is the evidence to support this assumption that Uncle Sam can do for the cities what they seem unable to do for themselves? Is Federal subsidy of urban slum-clearance the model? If so, it would seem that corruption and inefficiency rise proportionately with the increase of tax money available to city planners. In New York City, for example, the worst scandals in recent years (and that is saying a great deal) center around Title 1 slum-clearance.

One trouble with Federal aid to cities is that, unless Washington is to be the city hall for all America, the Government must make municipal administrations its agents. Since cities, by and large, suffer from "blight" only after dry-rot has set in at city hall, the result of Government subsidy of incompetent city administrations is a more costly incompetence, charged to the U. S. Treasury and thereby to every taxpayer. Should citizens of a well-run city, say Cincinnati, subsidize the corruption of New York City? That is what "urban renewal" comes to.

Of course, there are inescapable problems in big cities, no matter how well-run. But they aren't solved by dumping them on somebody else's doorstep. What most needs to be renewed in many urban areas is a spirit of civic pride and responsibility. Instead, both parties seem determined to stifle a real urban renewal.

How Neutral Can You Get?

President Eisenhower was certainly right to reject a meeting with Khrushchev under present circumstances. Not only could nothing useful be accomplished; the idea, which was cooked up at the United Nations, also deserved rejection because it seems to have been just a device for embarrassing the U. S. The suspicion is strong that the Soviets were behind the resolution calling for a meeting, although the nominal sponsors were the "neutral" nations of Ghana, India, Indonesia, Yugoslavia and the United Arab Republic. Presumably the U. S. would be on a spot whatever it did. If it accepted, it would be aiding the insufferable Khrushchev's propaganda; if it refused, it would be "against peace."

The play reflects little credit on the "neutrals" whether they were knowingly playing the Soviet game or whether they sincerely thought an Eisenhower-Khrushchev get-together would improve the international atmosphere. If the latter is the case, it reflects a staggering amount of naivete even for "neutrals." It is about as plain as anything could be that the trouble in the world stems not from a lack of summit meetings; it stems from Soviet policy. Unless the policy changes, meetings will only do harm.

The diplomatic door remains open should the Soviets ever decide to join the human race. Meantime this whole silly performance is one more unpleasant reminder of the uses to which the United Nations can be put by the Soviets and their "neutral" helpers.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

A Diagnosis Of A Man

When a man who has attained to Khrushchev's position in life acts the way he did in Paris and the way he is now acting in the United Nations, he is either suffering from some pathological misfortune or he is politically desperate. By the looks of him, he undoubtedly is of the Eastern European type that, when prosperous, develops diabetes and arteriosclerosis. His current wild temper must be new or Stalin would have had him de-capitalized. Stalin never accepted impudence from equals much less from subordinates. The compulsion to drink water constantly is characteristic of diabetics. Reports have it that Khrushchev is on a low salt diet such as is usually insisted upon by physicians treating patients who have cardiac difficulties.

The loss of temper on Saturday is beyond belief under the circumstances. Responsible men cannot afford to be so irresponsible and to risk their own country and its allies as Khrushchev does constantly. Up to a point, his buffoonery is an act but last Saturday, it was the responses of a man who had lost control — and lost it pathologically.

On the other hand, Khrushchev does have serious political troubles. Here we shall mention only two.

1. Khrushchev's relations with Mao;

2. The neutralist bloc. 1. Khrushchev's difficulties with Mao are essentially ideological, but to a Communist country the basis of thought and action is Marxism. The Chinese are orthodox Marxists; Soviet Russia is opportunistically Marxist. Red China insists that it is possible to establish Communism without going through various stages of socialism; Soviet Russia is now a socialist country in the perspective of a rising industrialization and those in power hope to keep it that way.

What Khrushchev calls co-existence is an effort to complete with the West economically and diplomatically without resort to war; Mao correctly believes that the Soviet world has reached as far as it can go by infiltration and corruption; that now war is required to finish the Revolution and to achieve the Marxist goal of a universal state. Shall the heart of the universal state be Moscow or Peking?

So far as Mao is concerned, it could be Peking; Khrushchev insists on the hegemony of the Kremlin over all socialist countries, even those which have no intention of becoming Communist. Khrushchev is concerned with intentions because he believes in the inevitability of historic results, one of which is that nationalism, internationalism, and capitalism belong to another era. He acts in the United Nations the way he does, because he regards opposition to his "scientific" point of view as utter nonsense. Besides who are these small countries to challenge mighty Russia? And who is this Irishman to tell the great Khrushchev when he is to speak and when he is to shut up?

Mao Tse-tung can pour 100,000,000 persons into Siberia and Uzbekistan and what will Khrushchev do with them? Kill them? That could help to solve Mao's population problem. He would merely send another 100,000,000 into Siberia and Uzbekistan.

2. The neutralist bloc is a particularly difficult problem because it represents a third force which can grow into a real and effective power. It will most likely be led by Tito and have the powerful support of Nehru. The neutral bloc's major problem is to avoid being gobbled up by either Soviet Russia or Red China. If Mao Tse-tung decided on the conquest of any part of India or the whole of it, India would not stand the slightest chance, unless India were protected by either Soviet Russia or the United States. Which protection will India ultimately be forced to choose?

Nehru apparently still believes that Khrushchev can influence Mao Tse-tung. This is an error, as every student of the China problem knows. Ultimately Nehru will be forced to seek protection from the United States and that day is not too far off. His neutral bloc allies are useful in the United Nations but should Mao Tse-tung invade Nepal, Kashmir or any other Indian territory, Nehru will have to have aid either from the United Nations, Soviet Russia or the United States. Whatever choice he makes will bring on a war of wide dimensions. Neither Tito nor Nasser is in an equally perilous situation, but Tito is by no means safe from Russian conquest unless he has American protection. His neutrality therefore is a myth. He must go one way or the other.

The Pennsylvania Story

Eye-Opener Year

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — The presidential campaign of 1960 has eclipsed what otherwise would be something of an eye-opener year for residents of the Keystone State.

Lost in the shuffle this fall on the broad plateau of national issues is the answer to the fiscal riddle Pennsylvania faces in legislative 1961.

Ironically of course, those who must come up with the answer next year are up for office this fall too — along with the national tickets!

They are the 210 members of the State House of Representatives and half of the 50-member State Senate. Their offices are strictly local in origin — but what they do as a combined unit when they meet in legislative session next year actually will have more direct effect on Pennsylvanians than the outcome of the presidential race now under way.

The legislators elected this fall and the answers they come up with in 1961 will strike where pocketbook.

Yet it is this group of elected receiving third place billing in officials that today is not even the overshadowing presidential race now rolling noisily along the campaign trail.

Seemingly Pennsylvania voters would do well to take at least a good close first look. If not a second look, at the local legislative candidates they will be voting on next month.

The importance of the role they will play next year in shaping the day to day living of Pennsylvania residents is almost inescapable — and yet at the moment almost completely eclipsed.

A quick look at the fiscal front underscores this importance.

During the current two-year biennial period ending May 31, 1961 Pennsylvania is operating with a near-two-billion-dollar General Fund budget — highest in the history of the Commonwealth.

The budget Governor Lawrence originally submitted to the 1959 Legislature totaled $1.9 billion, some $360 million above the budget of the preceding biennium. (He ultimately wound up with an increase of around $200 million.)

Basic means of underwriting this current huge budget of course is the four per cent sales tax finally wrangled through the hectic 1959 legislative session.

And yet — indications are strong that Pennsylvania may well end the current biennium in the red — either from departmental over-spending (forcing deficiency appropriations) or through failure of tax revenues to meet original estimates.

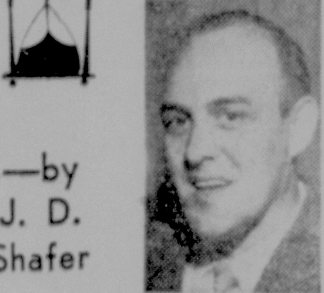

A possible indication of things to come is contained in a report from the Governor's own Office of Administration this week covering revenue collections for the first 16 months of the current two-year biennium.

The report shows these collections — up to October 1 — standing at $1,082,200,000, as compared with an expected and originally estimated $1,104,500,000 for the period. Or, in more specific terms, revenue collections at this point are running $22,300,000 behind schedule — a worrisome two per cent under estimates.

And significantly — eight months remain before the end of the current biennium May 31, 1961, which by that time could present a most serious picture if the revenue-below-estimates rate continues.

Yet the solution will have to be found by those very candidates this year lost in the great presidential election shuffle — the 235 lawmakers who will also be elected November 8!

The Allen-Scott Report

Agriculture Dept. Probe

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington — The strange failure of Agriculture Department officials to do something about a long-pending report by one of their own agencies on a shocking case of large-scale grain adulteration by a strange operator is due to be aired in those resumed hearings of the House Government Operations Subcommittee headed by Representative L. H. Fountain (D-N.C.).

As a result of his dogged disclosures in the past several years of scores of scandals and illegalities in the handling of the government's multi-billion dollar stocks of farm surpluses, millions of dollars have been recovered in "windfall" profits, fines and other payments.

Three matters particularly will be delved into by the House investigators in scrutinizing the curious lack of concern of Agriculture Department officials about the report on grain adulteration — that netted the operator $15 million profits:

Although the comprehensive report was made by the Compliance & Investigation Division of the Commodity Stabilization Service in 1955, the Agriculture Department to this day has done nothing about it.

Department attorneys deemed the report so serious that they took the unusual step of calling it especially to the attention of the Operations Division with the suggestion that "some administrative action be taken"—but to no avail.

In 1957, the committee received written assurances from a high Department official that "these improper practices are no longer followed by the elevators." Yet, in August of this year, Roland Ballou, Assistant Deputy Administrator of Operations, told the investigators, "To my knowledge there has been no action taken . . . So far as I know, it still continues today."

"Is it true," asked James Naughton, committee general counsel, "that Switzerland refused to buy U. S. grain for at least a year after receiving several cargoes slugged with low-grade Canadian wheat?"

"Switzerland said it was easier to buy Manitoba wheat of known quality," replied Raymond Vickery, director of the Grain & Feed Division. "They followed this practice for more than a year."

"Then you think that if some of the screenings and sediment were cleared out of our grain it would help us," continued Naughton.

"That would help our competitive position," agreed Vickery.

Strange Details — Following their August hearings, the four Democratic and two Republican members of the House investigating committee unanimously criticized sharply the Department's failure to act promptly and forcefully on grain adulteration.

In an interim bipartisan report the probeers stated:

"As a result of the disclosure in 1952 and 1953 that large quantities of low-grade Canadian wheat had been imported and illegally mixed with U. S. wheat at port elevators, a series of investigations of port elevator operations was conducted by the Department of Agriculture. One of these investigations, made by the Compliance & Investigation Division of the Commodity Stabilization Service in 1955, involved the Port of Vancouver elevator at Vancouver, Wash., operated by the Archer-Daniels-Midland Co.

"A-D-M had been indicted 1954 on charges of false statements and conspiracy in connection with the Canadian grain transactions, had pled guilty, and was fined $50,000. The 1955 investigation report disclosed that A-D-M had realized a gain of more than $1.5 million in three years at its Vancouver elevator, resulting primarily from an average increase of about 2 1/2 percent in the moisture content of all wheat handled."

"The report disclosed that it was the practice at this elevator to 'wash' wheat; it also revealed that the elevator had been adding thrash to wheat and barley being loaded out of the elevator—a practice recognized as an abuse by the grain trade and considered illegal adulteration by the Food & Drug Administration for grain moving in interstate commerce."

"Although the Agriculture Department's investigation report on the Vancouver situation was made available to a number of Department officials in 1955, this committee still has no evidence that any administrative action has been taken to correct the abuses revealed in the Department's investigation."

"Further, a recent Senate investigation disclosed that Earl Corey, former director of the Portland Commodity Credit office and one of the officials who had received the report, had made approximately $30,000 profit in a stock deal involving the west coast vice president of the Archer-Daniels-Midland Co."

(Recently, Corey was convicted on charges of conflict of interest in another case.)

Still No Inspecting — Agriculture Department officials admitted, during the August hearings, that there still is little or no inspecting of the possible "slugging" of grain in storage elevators.

Following are highlights of this startling testimony:

"Do inspectors of the Agricultural Marketing Service regularly check the inside of elevators in an effort to ascertain whether the grain is adulterated through the addition of water, low-grade grain or trash?" asked Representative Fountain.

"That is not our authority," replied Bert Whitlock, AMS director.

"Since your inspectors do not make checks," said General Counsel Naughton, "then it would be entirely possible for the grain to be adulterated?"

"That is right," said Whitlock. "We make no regular check on screenings imported into this country. I think there is quite a volume of such screenings moved in here and made into pellet feed."

"In the light of all these circumstances," continued Naughton, "it would be fairly simple for someone to import screenings from Canada and dump them into grain going overseas?"

"Yes, it would," said Whitlock. "We would have no authority over it. We would degrade the grain, if we found there is sufficient quantity of trash."

"But you would make no report on it," said Naughton.

"No, except we would probably have knowledge that the practice was being done," said Whitlock.

"So if someone wanted to try to get away with this," asked Naughton, "he probably could do so?"

"Yes," said Whitlock.

"You have already testified that screenings are being imported from Canada," said Naughton. "Do you know whether they are being imported by individuals storing grain held by the Commodity Credit Corporation?"

"I don't know," said Whitlock.

"If you will look into that," pointedly urged Naughton, "I think you will find something very interesting."

Inside You And Yours

Dollars, Doughnuts

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.
What happens when your youngster dashes home from school with a note announcing large tonsils?

Should your doctor start scrubbing for an operation? Or can you avoid that old tonillectomy trail?

Some surgeons claim that every large tonsil should come out; others scream that tonsillectomy never helps.

Today, mist doctors attack the tonsil problem with a businesslike approach.

It's simple economy! Is the tonsil's double duty worth the cost of upkeep?

In the constant battle against disease, the tonsils guard vulnerable points to keep germs and other dangerous characters from infiltrating into your system. At the same time, they manufacture antibodies to kill any germs or poisons already circulating within your biological boundaries.

Lymphatic Tissue
To perform this double task, the tonsils are made of special spongy material known as lymphatic tissue. Every place else, these tiny lymphatic mounds are called lymph nodes or glands; you call them swollen glands when infection inflates them into lumps you can feel. But in the throat they're simply tonsils or adenoids.

Originally, a fleshy doughnut of lymphatic tissue encircled the throat. Growth breaks this tonsillar doughnut into several pieces long before birth.

Tonsils And Adenoids
Those segments at the back of the mouth become tonsils, while those pieces behind the nose are tagged adenoids. Like crullers and doughnuts, tonsils and adenoids are made from the same recipe; only their shape and location differ.

All lymphatic tissue grows rapidly, hitting its peak at seven or eight years of age. Then, lymph glands shrink into adult life. And so among the grade-school set just about everyone has tremendous tonsils!

Cuts The Throat
Large but healthy, they still slave away guarding against illness. To amputate these giants simply because of their size is truly cutting one's own throat.

Large but healthy, they still slave away guarding against illness. To amputate these giants simply because of their size is truly cutting one's own throat.

But there comes a day when no one can afford the price of this protection.

The tonsils may be crawling with infection which erupts into feverish tonsillitis every few weeks. Plump, healthy tonsils may fill the throat to form a blockade against food; even the tiniest chunk won't go down! Sometimes healthy-looking tonsils harbor tiny germs which trigger big bouts of asthma.

Breathing Affected

Behind the nose, swollen adenoids may seal off almost all the breathing space. After vigorous night-time snoring, a child wanders about all day with his mouth open—"catching flies." He has to; he can't breathe through his nose.

Ear trouble may grow out of large adenoids. If they clog the opening of the tiny tube from the ear, infection follows ear-piercing pain week after week, blunting hearing into partial deafness.

Feeling Of Uncertainty

Unlike these clear-cut reasons for the surgeon's knife, a vague, uncertain feeling may lead a doctor to suggest tonsillectomy.

Some scrawny children have to huff and puff to keep up with playmates. No drop of blood, no microscope slide reveals why such a child resembles a worried, worn-out weakling. When vitamin-rich tonics and mineral-loaded syrups fail to put spring into his step, the doctor may put him to sleep and steal his tonsils—as a last resort.

Doctor Must Decide

Sometimes dramatic results transform the weakling into a husky youngster. But often the results remain more vague than the reasons for surgery. Only your doctor can decide what's best.

The doctor is the best accountant you can find for this business of the tonsils. He won't stand for unhealthy conditions where tonsils or adenoids cost more than they're worth.

But also, it's dollars to doughnuts, he won't want to dip into throats merely because he's impressed with king-size tonsils!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

The Junior Woman's Club has adopted an admirable slogan for their yearbook and their year, although at the moment it is not one I'm in any mood to comply with. It's slogan is "Whistle While you Work."

Since their work this year will center around the old Mansion House restoration, the cover of the year book carries a staff of music with notes instead of notes, and the hand-colored illustrations for each month features one of the Seven Dwarfs.

The six project teams also are named for the dwarfs. They've won umpteen state prizes for their yearbooks, and there's no reason why this one shouldn't follow right along.

Well, I'm not sure how much whistling the Juniors do, but there is always plenty of work when they get started. They are a lively and attractive group of young people, and I'm always amazed at their first meeting to realize how many of them I don't know.

Oh I don't know them one way or another through the years: in this community drive, on that PTA committee, in this project, but Junior Woman's Club is the place to meet the newcomers to the community.

The community itself is a changing one. There were times, even in Junior Woman's Club history, when every member had grown up with or tagged along behind every other member. Parents and grandparents had known each other.

I was amused at their supper on Tuesday night to see one table canvassing itself to see how many at the table were natives. Turned out that only 8 of the 30 had been born and grown up in the community. It was amazing as well.

Well, if all the newcomers are as welcome we'll be lucky. And judging from appearances, the future of "The Baby's Named" column in the Daily Record is assured, at least for the winter months.

Homecoming Service

The annual Home-Coming Service will be observed next Sunday, October 9, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Smithfield at Craig Meadows. The Rev. Dr. Fred C. Wunder, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Allentown, will be the guest minister for the Home-coming occasion.

Some Christmas Gifts That Earn Extra Money

By Anne Heywood

Judging by my mail, more and more families are having difficulty fitting Christmas into their annual budgets. Although it may seem early to be thinking about that now, only the who think about it now can come up with a successful solution.

Which Way Best?

Basically there are two ways to handle it. One is to make your own Christmas presents, the other is to figure some way to earn extra money between now and Christmas—enough money to pay for presents purchased at stores.

Sometimes a wise woman combines the two and comes up with a homemade production which is suitable for giving to many of the people on her list, and which can also be sold through neighborhood gift shops.

Impersonal But Festive

Such a product should be impersonal enough to be of general appeal, yet festive enough to find a good market for Christmas.

Through the years, I have collected a list of presents which have successfully fitted into this category.

I remember one woman whose hobby was ceramics. She turned out perfectly beautiful Christmas ash trays in the shape and color of holly leaves with a cluster of bright red berries on each.

Made Extra Money She gave them to relatives and friends and also sold them through a local gift shop. Receipts from their sale were enough to handle all the other Christmas presents the family needed to buy.

I also remember a very young grandmother who turned out charming tinsel-trimmed earmuffs, which were adorable for girls and young women, and which had a brisk sale through a specialty shop.

Other Ideas Other possibilities are attractive Christmas mittens, good-looking and festive holiday

Miss Barbara J. Gravel Married In Easton Church

At a ceremony on Saturday, September 24 in St. Bernard's Catholic Church, Easton, Miss Barbara J. Gravel, of Canadensis, became the bride of Donald E. Riley, The Rev. William H. Mooney officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. Arnold Gravel of Canadensis, and Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Riley, of 667 Washington Street, Easton.

Mr. Gravel gave his daughter in marriage. Her sister, Miss Joni Gravel, was maid of honor and Miss Peggy Weber was bridesmaid. Alfred Crittelli, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man.

The bride wore a silk taffeta dress with a Chantilly lace bodice trimmed with a collar embroidered in seed pearls. Her shoulder length silk illusion veil fell from a crown of pearls and tulle. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, pompons, and ivy.

The maid of honor was attired in a turquoise blue satin sheath, while the bridesmaid was in gold satin. Both carried bouquets of roses and pompons and wore matching crowns of flowers in their hair.

After a dinner at the Pavilion in Phillipsburg, N.J. for the immediate families, the couple left on a trip through the New England States. They will reside at 2323 Forest Street, Easton.

Some Students Take Job Just For Experience

BY LYDIA BICKFORD AP Newsfeatures

High school and college students all over the country — about 2½ million of them — will go back to school this fall with money jingling in their pockets.

It will be a welcome sound, for these are the students under 20 who've worked for the first time this summer. And the proceeds from their labors will help foot college bills, give them spending money for school social life, and help out the family at home.

The kids have really earned it. They've built roads and houses; worked at summer resorts and soda fountains; rustled up hamburgers and driven trucks. And it's paid off.

But another horde of students, who can't be as readily counted, have spent a cashless summer gaining something as important to them as money — experience.

Many have volunteered in social agencies, helping in hospitals, mental institutions, and camps for the handicapped. They're the career-minded youngsters, who could afford to store up a wealth of experience for the future, whose summer volunteering may guide them to a future profession.

Two ways to serve Southern spoon bread—with butter, or with butter and syrup. Choose plain butter when the bread accompanies poultry or fish; offer butter and syrup when the bread makes its appearance on a brunch menu with bacon or ham.

Composer George Gershwin's father thought Tin Pan Alley was a road to prison. He wanted George to leave the piano in the parlor where it belonged, and study to be a bookkeeper instead.

Stick To Schedule This may mean getting very tough with your relatives and alienating for the time being, some of your neighbors; but if you are in earnest about wanting to make your home product, you will discover that it is well worth disciplining yourself to keeping a fairly strict time schedule for the work.

(For further pointers on ways of making money at home, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope in care of this newspaper and I will be happy to send you my list of recommended books on the subject.)

Harvey Huffman, serving as Master of ceremonies, introduced Rev. Wesley Crowthers of the Shawnee and Middle Smithfield Churches who gave the invocation. Officers of both organizations were introduced.

One of the highlights of the party was the presentation of a transistor radio from the members of the fire company to their Fire Chief Ralph Miller. With the presentation went words of praise for his devotion: "He has given unsparingly of his time and himself during the 16 years he has been in office," the citation read.

Other firemen introduced were Stanley Wisegarver, president; Raymond Hartmann, vice president; Paul Pipher, secretary; Charles Degan, corresponding secretary; Carl Yetter, financial secretary; Carlyle Huffman, treasurer; Richard MacDonough, assistant fire chief, and the directors, Harvey Huffman, Ray Lewis and Franklin Hallett.

The first company auxiliary officers introduced were Mrs. Carlyle Huffman, president; Mrs. Melvin Scott, vice president; Mrs. Leonard Mosler, secretary; Mrs. Bruce Sherman, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Harvey Huffman, treasurer.

The entertainment which followed the dinner included a comedy skit by Bob Williams, social director of Mountain Lake House; and magic by The Willards from Allentown with Robert Heid as their principal victim.

NEXT TIME YOU'RE IN—

be sure to see the genuine gem stones set in gold and dangled from matinee-length chains by Coro. The price tag is just 1.00, which is very reasonable indeed. Also see the polished onyx, agate, and other natural stones fashioned by a Canadensis gentleman into lovely bracelets, earrings, and necklaces. These are priced only a bit higher than the Coro collection and are an excellent buy for Christmas giving.

There is something about genuine gem stones that really takes my eye, and at a time when I had thought I was entirely immune to the appeal of jewelry, after arranging three drawers full over the weekend. As I've mentioned before, I am a hoarder of jewelry, and treat even my costume pieces as though they were something out of Tiffany's front window. Every set I own is kept in unlidded boxes, all neatly arranged in my bureau, where they can be seen at a glance. Yet, for all of this, I find myself clinging to a few favorites that I wear over and over again. That's why, some time ago, I decided I'd never buy another necklace . . . something I immediately forgot when I saw some of the timely selections offered at only 2 for 1.00 during Woman's Days.

Truth is, styles in jewels change drastically from season to season. Like all styles, they recur if one waits . . . and clings to the old. But when the drawers begin bulging, who can do this? When I was a girl, everyone owned seed pearls, and also a demure choker of small, graduated pearls. They were standard. Today seed pearls are returning after a long vacation . . . but are worn in great masses, 22 or 30 strings to one necklace. Even then, really smart women combine them with other necklaces.

When I was 12, the women wore ropes . . . these returned a few years ago and are still popular. When I was fourteen the trend was for colored pearls as huge as marbles. Marble-sized "bubble" pearls are in vogue once again today . . . but I have seen only white. Lengths change too, along with necklines. Chokers are not nearly as smart these days as the matinee length, which ends at the bustline, or thereabouts.

The "laveliere" of yesterday is now the popular pendant of today—and is especially appropriate when the dangling bauble is not too large. I realized this when, on Sunday as I straightened my jewelry boxes, my daughter began enthusing over an amethyst on a silver chain given me when I was about 18.

Even this year's bibs are different than those of other years. Not only are the smaller beads interspersed with larger ones, the pearls are invariably grouped with crystals making them "pearls of fire," as one company advertises. Perhaps the most stunning of these bibs in our jewelry display at present is a Vendome priced at 15.00. I wore this at our recent millinery show at Swiftwater, and displayed another Vendome necklace of bubble sized pearls that actually weigh no more than a feather and is almost soundless when dropped. Believe it or not, these particular beads are not at all what they seem—they are actually woven of silk, artfully shaped into baroque designs, and lacquered. These are creamier than most pearls, but otherwise have the same lustre. Vendome, incidentally, is the more expensive jewelry of the Coro line.

I guess the point of this whole article is that jewelry is a real fashion item . . . each season is new, different, exciting, but every piece of jewelry, whether of dollar or thousand dollar variety, deserves good care and will delight you year after year, if it is kept, cared for, and cherished. Come to think of it, THIS applies to almost everything doesn't it?—including friendship and love!

Deaf Can Be Made To Hear Doctors Told

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Through modern surgery and the use of antibiotics, many a deaf ear can be made to hear, the 110th annual session of the Pennsylvania Medical Society was told Wednesday.

"Before antibiotics, inflammation of the middle ear produced an acute mastoiditis in more than 50 per cent of cases," said Dr.

David Myers, professor and chairman of the department of otolaryngology at Temple University School of Medicine in Philadelphia. Such contagious and infectious diseases as scarlet fever and measles could, in the past, produce an acute inflammation of the middle ear, a dangerous condition with possible complications such as meningitis and brain abscess sometimes leading to death. Surgery in such cases used to be attended by severe anesthetic risk with frequent postoperative shock and hemorrhage, Myers said, adding:

"Today, many if not most of these emergencies can be effectively treated by means of antibiotic therapy and judicious surgery."

"Antibiotic drugs enable us to control the infection, and today's methods of anesthesia make modern surgery a controlled experience for the patient rather than an unpredictable adventure."

Myers warned against telling parents who observe a hearing loss in a child that the loss is due to inattentiveness and that the child will outgrow it.

Nothing could be further from the truth in the case of an actual defect in hearing, he told the 2,000 doctors attending the week-long conclave.

Often, he added, years of neglect brought on by bad medical advice lead to a chronic inflammation of the middle ear, resulting in even more hearing loss.

New Symbol Of DL&W-Erie Rails Distinctly Illustrates The 'Merger'

WHEN the merger of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad and the Erie Railroad Co. was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission on Sept. 15, most of the companies big problems were solved.

But the union left the company without a herald. A new symbol designating the jointure of the two companies was needed.

With the help of employees, former employees and retired train workmen, the company fulfilled its desire in a broad search for an emblem (marker) for the newly-formed Erie-Lackawanna Railroad.

Designs, suggestions and ideas were submitted by virtually thousands of the firms' associates. But now the search has ended.

Truman G. Knight, an Erie locomotive fireman and a native of Stow, Ohio, has been declared the grand prize winner in the E-L emblem contest.

But the entry of Leon H. Black, retired DL&W freight agent, of Bangor was judged the best emblem submitted by a Lackawanna employee. He lives at 330 S. Second Street.

Knight, who started his career as a relief baggageman and mail handler at Akron, Ohio, in 1956, designed a block letter E and a block L interlaced on a disc with a diamond. It was adjudged the best of more than 2,400 entries in the emblem contest.

For simplicity in application particularly to the rolling stock and for easier identification it has been slightly redesigned by company as illustrated—a solid monogram combining the E and L in a distinctly modern design.

20 Shares of Stock
As proposer of the design, Knight will be awarded 20 shares of E-L Railroad Co. common stock. The Bangor award entitled Black to receive ten shares of stock in the new company.

Dog Shoots Down Hunter

TRENT, Italy (AP)—Weary after hours of hunting with his dog on Mt. Misone, Zeno Prati laid his gun on the ground and stretched out for a rest Wednesday. The dog, still frisky, scampered on the trigger. Zeno was shot in the right foot.

NEW EMBLEM—This is the new emblem for the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad. The emblem combines an E and an L on a disc within a diamond. The merger of the railroads becomes effective Oct. 15, 1960.

pany or a $100 U.S. Savings Bond.
Along with the new emblem, a new slogan will be standard usage by the company. The slogan finally decided upon from hundreds of entries was "The Friendly Service Route."
The "Route of the Phoebe Snow", world famous, seems to have passed with the former coal-burning locomotives. The "Phoebe Snow" has drawn many acclaims throughout its long life and just about as many versions as to how it became so named.
In going through the entries the selection committee found many emblem and slogan suggestions that were worthy of consideration. They therefore decided to recognize the individual efforts by naming them to honorable mention list. Among the list included employees and retired Erie employees from Scranton, Moscow, Port Jervis, N.Y., and Dunmore, as well as from other areas in its territory.

Newsweek Says Kennedy Ahead

NEW YORK (AP)—Newsweek magazine said yesterday a 50-state survey by it indicated Sen. John F. Kennedy was ahead of Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the presidency.
The magazine said the Democratic candidate from Massachusetts held a clear lead in states having 193 electoral votes, and held an edge in states with 136 votes, for a total of 329.
A total of 269 electoral votes is necessary to win the November election.

Hunters Gobble Up Licenses

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP)—It didn't take long yesterday for Somerset County hunting enthusiasts to gobble up the 4,200 licenses for the one-day antlerless deer hunting season.
The line at the courthouse started forming at 2:30 a.m. Licenses went on sale at 8:30 a.m. and by 2:15 p.m., all were gone. About 100 persons still were waiting when the window closed. Some 12 extra clerks were needed to help in the sale.
The antlerless deer season is Dec. 17.

DL&W entries selected for honorable mention were from Clarks Summit, Dunmore, Scranton and Bangor.

Honorable Mention
The lone Bangor honorable mention winner was J. B. Roberts, of 70 N. Fourth St., a freight agent for Lackawanna for the past 44½ years.

Roberts submitted a design in context with the old emblem of the company. It showed a diamond and then a circle with the word "Lackawanna" and the word "Erie" placed in the center of the diamond. Near the lower part of the design the word "Service" was inscribed.

The Bangor freight agent gave this version on the Phoebe Snow story:
"It was due to the fact" he said, "that the company (DL&W) burned anthracite coal instead of bituminous coal, and as a result no smoke (or dirt) prevailed."

"Miss Phoebe Snow," he said the story of the version ran, "could ride the train all dressed in white without getting her clothes dirty." He said the name "Phoebe Snow" was coined by someone a long time ago.

Complete 100 Years
Two local railroad men in the county have completed over 100 years of service with the DL&W company. The two men are believed to be the only ones in the county presently receiving the railroad's monthly magazine.
Clarence Reaser, of 516 Wallace St., Stroudsburg seems to hold the title of longevity. He has served for more than 50 years with the railroad. He was employed in Stroudsburg, Cornell, N.Y., and other areas in the company's lines.
The other is Ralph L. Hiller, of 99 Broad St., Stroudsburg. The former air brakeman and car inspector worked for 35 years in Stroudsburg in addition to 15 years of service in Hoboken, N. J.

Child Consumes Insect Project

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—A package will soon be on its way from the Milwaukee Public Museum to Clifton Kendrick, of Park Forest, Ill., but he'll have to keep it away from his little brother.
The museum's entomologist, Kenneth MacArthur, decided to help Clifton, whose entire collection of insects was disposed of during the weekend.
Mrs. James Kendrick came upon Timothy, 21 months, gulping down the last of the tasty morsels. Timothy apparently had consumed 40 insects Clifton had collected for a ninth grade biology class project. Included were three grasshoppers, two ants, four butterflies, a katydid and several moths.
Timothy, by the way, is said to have suffered no ill effects.

Mayor's Advice For Angry 'K'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—When Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev gets mad, "slap him on the back of his squat, fat neck."
That advice comes from a man who did just that, Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco.
Addressing the Catholic Alumni Club yesterday, Christopher recalled last year's visit of the Soviet premier in San Francisco.

"I noticed that when he thought he had angered me, he would slap me on the back—and hard, too—or jab me in the ribs with an elbow and laugh," the mayor said.
"So I decided to do the same thing to him, and it worked. But sometimes it took a lot of slapping by both of us."

Yankees, Pirates Differ On Play That Won Series Opener For Bucs

Made Better Grabs; Virdon

By GIB STALEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bill Virdon, the flashy center fielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, says he has made better catches than the one which robbed Yogi Berra of an extra base hit in the fourth inning of Wednesday's World Series game.

"Yes, I have made better catches but none which gave me a greater thrill," Virdon added in the clubhouse where the Pirates seemed to take in stride their 6-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

The ball that Berra hit was a deep shot to right center. The Pirates were leading 3-1 and Roger Maris was on second base and Mickey Martie on first with none out. Virdon and right fielder Roberto Clemente raced toward the wall, about 420 feet from home plate.

Two Reached
Both reached up and Virdon came down with the ball to the roar of the crowd and the anguish of Berra and his fellow Yankees. Virdon bumped into Clemente and his spikes cut the back of Clemente's right shoe but the Puerto Rican speedster was not hurt.

"I thought I could get it all the time," Virdon said. "I had a good beam on the ball."

Laughing over in his corner of the locker room, Clemente looked up and said:

"I think I could have caught it, too. We beat the Yankees tomorrow for sure. Just say I have a bad stomach or something and I'll read and mebbe I feel a little sick, huh? I always play better if I no feel so good."

Danny Murtaugh, the happy manager of the Pirates, said:

"There's no question about it—it was the key play of the game. It was a real catch—typical of Virdon."

Signs Mixed Says Bobby

YANKEE DRESSING ROOM
By TED SMITH
Associated Press Sports Editor
PITTSBURGH (AP)—The play that started the New York Yankees to their downfall in the first game of the World Series Wednesday came from a mixup in signals.

"We just didn't get together," said the Yankee second baseman, Bobby Richardson, concerning Yogi Berra's hard throw aimed at catching Bill Virdon as he stole second in the first inning.

By "we" he meant himself and Tony Kubek, the shortstop.

The two stood flatfooted in their fielding positions as the ball soared past second base into center field and Virdon raced all the way to third.

"Either of us could have gotten it, but we thought the other had it," said Richardson.

Virdon, who had walked, scored a moment later when Dick Groat lashed a double to right.

From then on the Pirates never were headed.

Changes Made
The official scorer called it a stolen base and an error for Berra, but later this was reversed and Kubek was charged with the error for failure to cover the base.

Berra declined to pin the blame on anyone.

In Berra's view the key play came in the fourth when Bill Virdon leaped up against the wall to catch Berra's hard smash — 420 feet from home plate and a home run in most parks.

"If that ball had fallen safe a lot might have happened," said Manager Casey Stengel.

Jay Hebert scored holes-in-one on two successive rounds of the 1959 El Paso Open. He ached the 201-yard 10th hole on the third round and the 170-yard third hole the following day on the fourth round.

Eastern Loop May Expand To 8 Teams

PITTSBURGH (AP)—President Tommy Richardson of the Eastern League said Tuesday the league can expand to eight teams next season if the Chicago Cubs keep their working agreement with the Lancaster, Pa., Red Roses.

Richardson said the St. Louis Cardinals plan having a team in the Eastern League. And he said another major league team, which he declined to identify, also is interested.

This, Richardson said, would enable the league to expand from its present six teams to eight. But he said it all depends on whether the Cubs renew their agreement with Lancaster.

Lancaster Key
"If they stay, and I hope they do, we will definitely go with eight teams next season," Richardson said.

Richardson said last month that he had four cities in mind as possible sites for two new franchises if the league expands. He mentioned Johnstown, York and Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Albany, N. Y.

During the 1960 season the league had teams in Springfield, Mass.; Binghamton, N. Y., and Lancaster, Williamsport, Allentown and Reading, Pa.

Grid Upsets Should Have Off Week

IF THE CURRENT trend of the 1960 football season holds true, there should be very few upsets this weekend but its hard to get an oval-shaped pickskin to bounce straight.

In the first week of the Guess-Perf selections, upsets dominated but the favorites held their own in the second week. Last week it was the upsets' turn again and they came through with seven wins, including Bangor over East Stroudsburg, Purdue over Notre Dame and Missouri over Penn State.

Don Allen saw enough of the upsets coming and picked 15 winners, to move into first place with a .714 percentage. Bob Clark, who led the eight-member board for two weeks, managed only 12 winners last week and dropped to second place with a .683 mark. Allen did not take part in the first week's selections because he was on vacation.

Only two of the Guess-Perfs, Allen and Tony Cesare picked Bangor to beat East Stroudsburg and Curt Prins was the only selector to go with Missouri over Penn State, but he was the only one to tag along with East Stroudsburg State College against West Chester.

Big Jump
The biggest jump in the standings this week was by Cesare, who moved from a last place tie to fourth position. Shafer fell from a third place tie to the seventh spot.

Toughest Games
The Big Ten again furnishes the toughest games to pick. Illinois and Ohio State and Iowa-Michigan State along with Wisconsin-Purdue could go either way.

But it is the Southwestern Conference that has the hardest selection, Arkansas-Baylor. Arkansas is ninth in the Associated Press standings and unbeaten, while Baylor knocked off previously unbeaten LSU last week. The board of guessers rate the game as a toss-up.

Penn State and Army are also in the "pick-em" column, while Pennsylvania gets the nod from Princeton and Pitt is favored over Miami.

Kansas City Hires Joe Gordon For Two Years

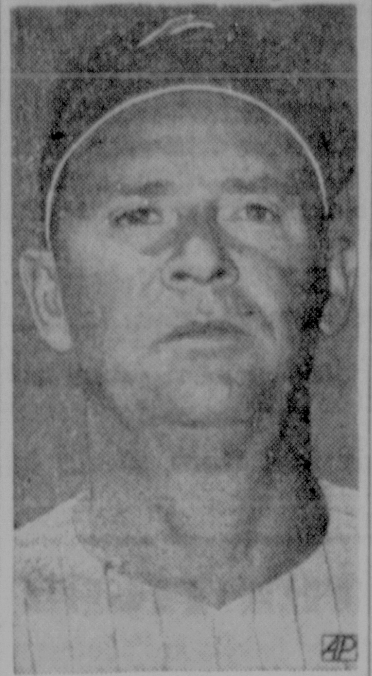

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Joe (Flash) Gordon, who spent his entire major league playing career with two clubs, signed Wednesday as manager of the Kansas City Athletics—his third managerial job within two months.

After a half hour conference with Parke Carroll, Athletics' general manager, Gordon agreed to a two-year contract for an estimated $35,000 a year.

Gordon resigned as manager of the Detroit Tigers on Monday, the same day the Athletics fired their manager, Bob Elliott. In August, Gordon had figured in an unprecedented big league managerial switch, which sent Gordon from Cleveland to Detroit and Jimmy Dykes from Detroit to Cleveland.

Both Gordon and Carroll expressed satisfaction over the outcome of the results of their two days of negotiations. Reports here have it that Ralph Houk, a coach with the New York Yankees, is receiving serious consideration for the vacant Detroit managerial job. Houk turned down a Kansas City offer last year to remain with the Yankees, but this time he has expressed interest in any offer which might lead to a better job in baseball. Bill Rigney, deposed as San Francisco Giants manager last

Joe (Flash) Gordon

May, also is reported to have applied for the Detroit post. He also is said to be receiving consideration from the Chicago Cubs.

Lou Bourdreau quit as cubs manager Tuesday when he was refused a three-year contract.

Scheffing Considered
Another managerial post which may be filled during the World Series is that at San Francisco, where Tom Sheehan is not expected to be rehired. Bob Scheffing, Milwaukee Braves' coach, is believed to have the inside track for that job.

Gordon, 45, was a standout second baseman with the Yankees from 1938 through 1946 and with Cleveland 1947-50.

Grimsley Picks Army, Navy and Texas To Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — World Series fever may be hot, but they're busting a few thermometers also around the college football circuit.

Crystal balls, too, are going up in puffs of smoke in this most unpredictable of gridiron campaigns. Cloudy glass punctured our average last week, dropping our score to 70-25 for '736. But there's a brighter view this week: Syracuse 35, Holy Cross 7: The national champions aren't as solid as 1959, but they give us a breather here.

Mississippi 28, Vanderbilt 12: Ole Miss lacks the versatility of last year, but still has too much speed and depth for Vandy.

Minnesota 14, Northwestern 12: The Gophers are a rag to riches saga and Big Ten title material.

Army 20, Penn State 7: Tom Blanda gets the Cadets clicking. Navy 19, Southern Methodist 7: The Midshipmen are a bit slicker.

Baylor 14, Arkansas 7: South west operatives contend the Bears may be the best in the conference.

Texas 21, Oklahoma 14: Texas Coach Darrell Royal always gets his athletes up for this wild weekend.

Wisconsin 19, Purdue 14: Our "upset special".

Notre Dame 23, North Carolina 8: The Tarheels are too thin. Michigan State 21, Iowa 14: The Spartans get an uneasy nod at home.

Parallel Of Market, Military

By WILLIAM FERRIS
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A Wall Street analyst Wednesday drew a parallel between the current stock market and a military campaign.

"A military leader," said Alan C. Poole of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., "when uncertain of the enemy's position and activities will hold a large portion of his troops in reserve."

Poole recommended the same cautious attitude toward the market.

"The investor will be well advised in maintaining large purchasing power reserves in the form of cash and fixed income securities."

Easier Money
"Easier money may still be used to combat falling stock prices and a further recession in business. This would cause higher bond prices."

"The recent downward draft has not dampened the enthusiasm of the Bache & Co. market letter writer, he said."

"We can only repeat our statement of recent days that, no matter what course the Dow-Jones industrial average takes in the immediate future, all of our technical indicators tell us that the market as a whole is still in a highly oversold condition."

Also not discouraged is E. George Schaefer, author of "The Dow Theory Trader".

"With each passing day," Schaefer said, "the technical position of this market becomes stronger and more bullish for a rise that may well be steeper and swifter than the 1958-59 rise."

"Regardless of who wins the election in November, I believe that the primary bull trend under the Dow theory will rule and a much higher market will come by late 1960 and early 1961."

Penn State Adopts New Program

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania State University has adopted a new four-term year around program that will allow students to graduate in three years.

In announcing the new program yesterday Dr. Eric A. Walker, Penn State president, said it will become effective June 15, 1961.

Walker said the program would not reduce the course work load. Rather, it is aimed at using university human and material resources to the fullest, Walker declared.

Instead of the traditional two semesters of 15 weeks each, the state university will offer four terms of 10 weeks each. Class periods will be lengthened from 50 minutes to 75 minutes with a 20-minute break, but total time spent in classes, course organization and credit structure will remain the same.

Extended

As an example, the president said that in 1961-62, the summer term will extend from June 15 to Aug. 24, followed by a fall term from Oct. 2 to Dec. 12. The winter and spring terms will extend from Jan. 3 to March 13, and March 21 to May 31, respectively.

Dr. Walker said make-up work under the new program can be done in shorter, less costly sessions. Students who interrupt their studies for health or financial reasons will be able to re-enter college at more frequent periods. Holiday interruptions will be fewer and briefer.

No change in fee structure is contemplated at this time, Walker said. Only the fourth term would entail additional expenditure.

Walker assured teachers that the university would continue to serve them by offering special program of advanced study within the framework of the traditional "summer term."

He added that faculty salaries would be adjusted to fit the new academic year, and said that neither graduate study nor intercollegiate athletics should be adversely affected.

"It is plain," Dr. Walker said, "we can no longer afford the luxury of summer-long 'holidays' from learning."

Riot 'Form' Of Expression In France

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

THE riot is such a traditional form of public expression in France that outsiders frequently look upon them with complacency.

A riot against the policies of President Charles de Gaulle, great national hero and strong man who has held the country together during three threatening crises in 20 years, is another thing.

So is a French government which invokes economic sanctions against citizens, writers and broadcasters who disagree with it over continuation of the war in Algeria.

More and more conscientious objectors have been deserting from the French army to protest the war and the failure of De Gaulle to put through his announced policy of self-determination.

Announce Support

A growing group of intellectuals announced support for the right to desert in such cases. This group has been barred from government-owned communications media.

It's all a part of the six-year battle over whether Algeria is an integral part of France, is entitled to freedom under an Arab government, or whether self-determination will mean cooperation between the Algerians and the French in Algeria as a part of Metropolitan France or of the French Union as De Gaulle hopes.

Right-wingers merely want subjugation of the Algerian rebels. Left-wingers support an end to the war and a settlement recognizing the 9-to-1 priority of the native stock.

There is now a revival of the question of whether the conflict is eating away democracy in France itself.

Great fear for France's future was widely expressed when De Gaulle took over in an effort to end an economic and political crisis which gripped the country because of the involvement of half a million men in Algeria.

De Gaulle governs without recourse to Parliament, although parliamentary forms are still preserved, and it is now meeting to make itself heard.

So far, De Gaulle has managed to preserve democracy while curing a good many governmental ills.

Educational Council Urged

HARRISBURG (AP)—The head of Pennsylvania State University Wednesday urged creation of a state council of higher education to coordinate expansion of colleges and universities.

In an address to the State Chamber of Commerce President Eric F. Walker said the state would need to make room for an additional 100,000 students at its institutions of higher learning during the next decade.

Walker estimated that the instructional programs alone for the additional students would cost about $145 million per year.

"In addition," he said, "Pennsylvanians will have to spend an average of about $45 million a year during these next 10 years to provide the buildings needed for these additional programs."

Mission Is Accomplished By JUC

CHICAGO—A decade of activity to establish The American Lutheran Church of 2,258,000 members came to an end on Sept. 28 with the final meeting here of the Joint Union Committee for the three-way merger.

The last session of the JUC, representing the Evangelical, American and United Evangelical Lutheran Churches, was marked by the triumphant refrain:

"Mission accomplished . . . by the grace of God!"

Plans for the organic union that was consummated this year were initiated on Sept. 16, 1949, at a meeting called by the late Dr. N. C. Carlsen, president of the UELC.

Dr. Carlsen guided the preliminary steps in the merger deliberations until his death early in 1950. That year the conventions of the church bodies acted to form the JUC and the committee's first official meeting was held on Feb. 13-14, 1951.

To all intents and purposes the union is now an accomplished fact, according to reports given here, although the new Church does not become constitutionally operative until Jan. 1, 1961.

The JUC found things running so smoothly that, even though the committee does not officially "die" until midnight of Dec. 31, it was decided that no further meetings are necessary.

Earlier a date in December had been reserved for one more meeting but this was cancelled. To take care of any further business that might come before it, the JUC authorized its officers to act on matters that must be disposed of before the end of the year. The officers are to refer other matters either to the Church Council or the Joint Council of The ALC, depending on the nature of the item.

Officers of the JUC are Dr. William Larsen, president of the UELC and secretary-elect of The ALC, chairman; Dr. O. G. Malm, editor of the ELC's Lutheran Herald, vice chairman; and Dr. William L. Young, executive secretary of the Board of Higher Education of the present ALC, secretary.

Reporting to the JUC on the status of the interim expense fund of $300,000, Dr. Thurman G. Overton, executive secretary of the Board of Trustees of the ELC, said there was every indication that expenditures would stay well within the budget.

This fund was set up to provide an addition to the headquarters building in Minneapolis; moving expenses for official personnel; cost of meetings of boards, commissions and committees; stewardship promotion, and the like.

Dr. Overton referred particularly to the $225,000 allocated for an addition to the church headquarters' building. Thus far about $160,000 has been spent. Further costs, including installation of office partitions and additional wiring and air conditioning, will be within the appropriation, he reported.

Down Market Comes To Life

NEW YORK (AP)—Inspired by a depressed stock market came to life late Wednesday and rallied to a sizeable gain on average. Overall volume was mediocre but trading was heavy as stocks advanced.

An estimated $1.6 billion in quoted values was added to stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the advance in The Associated Press average.

Oils have been recommended for weeks now as badly oversold stocks whose yields have become attractively high. Word got around on Wall Street that America was about to hike its dividend and oils began to climb in advance of the news.

When Amerasia announced it would boost the payout to 65 cents from 50 cents a share the buying drive continued and stocks closed at their best levels of the day. The ticker tape ran late for 11 minutes during the heaviest turnover.

Earlier it looked as if the market was heading for its third straight daily decline. The general run of news continued drab.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 5.73 to 578.88.

The AP 60-stock average rose 1.20 to 205.90 with the industrials up 2.30, the rails up .80 and the utilities up .10.

Of 1,191 issues traded, 541 advanced and 409 declined. New lows for the year totaled 80.

Volume was 2.65 million shares compared with 2.27 million Tuesday.

Proposed Ike 'K' Meet Just A Good Bloc

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
IF IT is a foregone conclusion that President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev could not get anywhere if they did meet, why do the neutrals keep plugging on the point?

A good many people seem to think that they are just trying to emphasize their new importance in the U. N. General Assembly because of their increased numbers. It's a good issue around which to rally a bloc. It's pious.

But there are greater factors, more serious factors, involved. The neutrals realize, as others have realized, that there is an inherent danger in a situation in which the leaders of the world's two most powerful nations are not speaking.

Renewal of Contracts
They want to put the leaders of these two nations on full notice that this situation has created widespread fear, widespread disapproval, and that the world demand for a renewal of contacts is a serious one.

They have been shocked by many things since the assembly opened. One is the Khrushchev attempt to draw solid lines for the cold war within the United Nations through a confrontation of neutral, Western and Eastern interests in a new secretariat system, with its sure threat to the future of the organization itself.

One is a suspected tendency of the United States to tab nationalism in Africa as communistically inclined unless it is actively anti-Communist. The United States has been trying to deny this tendency but has made some slips. There has been an awakening of African leaders to the real bitterness of the cold war, since many of them have been too submerged in preparation of new governments to give world issues much study.

Do Not Understand
Perhaps many of them still do not understand why nothing can be expected from Eisenhower and Khrushchev if British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who has stood still and kept plugging under heaps of abuse from the Soviet leader, can find no point of contact.

The neutrals have not fought because of perversity for their resolution urging new negotiations. They have seen the big powers and their attitude of confrontation over the Congo.

They have heard Khrushchev threaten the United States with rockets over Cuba. They see the pressures mounting around Berlin.

"We are meeting here not only to pray . . . but for action," said Nehru.

Pact Inked For Construction Of N'Fld Area Post Office

NEWFOUNDLAND — A contract has been signed for the construction and rent to the post office department of a new post office building on Route 290, according to Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

The successful bidder is F. Carroll Krautter. Ground breaking and construction of the new office is expected to begin immediately, with completion due January 31, 1961. The rental agreement will run for ten years.

The modern post office will provide 1,300 square feet of interior space; an outside loading platform; and ample hard-surfaced space for parking and truck maneuvering. Specifications call for new, modern lighting, including a low, open patron-service counter.

Important Step
Postmaster Summerfield notes that this is another important step in the post office department's modernization program authorized by Congress with the valued assistance of Senator Hugh Scott, to improve postal service for the public by providing new buildings and equipment designed for efficient and economical mail-handling.

He said, "Under the Post Office Department's unique commercial leasing program, the department now is awarding contracts for new postal facilities at the accelerated rate of over five buildings every working day. To achieve complete modernization of the postal plant, a total of 12,000 post offices must be modernized or replaced because of lack of space and obsolescence."

Adding further details concerning postal service today, he notes that "our more than 35,000 post offices are handling a total of 63 billion pieces of letter mail and parcel post annually. This is an all-time record and an increase of more than 24 percent above the approximately 50 billion pieces handled annually only 10 years ago."

He pointed out that the postal facility to be built in Newfoundland is typical of many others going up elsewhere throughout the country.

"These new post offices," he said, "contain not only the modern patron-service counters and eye-saving fluorescent lighting, but provision is made for patron service after regular hours."

The new post office in Newfoundland will remain under private ownership while rented to the Federal Government, and so will pay local real estate taxes to bear its share of the cost of local government.

Postmaster General Summerfield notes that mail users will find mail service in the years ahead improved through an unprecedented five year program of scientific postal research and engineering.

"The Post Office Department has under development a machine that actually reads addresses or letters and then sorts the mail in special slots, ready for dispatch. Another machine separates rapidly moving mail according to address by pushbutton keyboard. Still another cancels mail at speeds of 30,000 letters an hour. Now being considered for use is a new compact customer-operated postal substitution," with mechanical devices that sell stamps, envelopes, money orders, accepts parcel post and makes change.

"Mail-handling on the work-room floors of our larger post offices is rapidly being mechanized which will end the old-fashioned methods of hand-labor, and the resultant clutter and confusion."

Great Strides
Great strides are being made in speeding the mail into and out of our larger gateway post offices by the installation of mechanical and electronic machines. Their installation in the large mail volume post offices will result in faster mail service to every other post office, whether it is in a large city or small town, bringing nearer the post office department's goal of next day delivery of mail everywhere in the nation.

The Newfoundland postmaster is C. L. Beesacker.

Nfld Area Youth Group Hold Planning Retreat

LA ANNA — The Youth Hostel, the property of the American Youth Hostels Association, was the setting for an overnight planning retreat for the executive council of the Greentown-Newfoundland-South Sterling Youth Fellowship.

A tentative schedule of meetings was planned by the council as follows: October 9, collection for the Harvest Festival for the benefit of the Children's Home of the Wyoming Conference, (meeting at Hemlock Grove Church at 6 p.m.); October 16, Harvest Festival at South Sterling; October 23, Outreach program on the MYFund; October 30, discussion.

November 6, snack supper at South Sterling, followed by business meeting and program by area of Christian Faith; November 13, film; November 20, speaker; November 27, panel discussion; December 4, film; December 11, discussion "What Is Christmas?"; December 18, snack supper and caroling party; December 31, Watchnight party and worship service.

Topics Selected

Topics suggested for discussion during the year included the following: "Should a Catholic Be President?" "Should the Voting Age Be Lowered?" "Early Marriages and the Divorce Rate;" "Mixed Marriages;" "Dating and Christian Behavior."

The retreat at the hostel began with a two-hour discussion and planning session, followed by supper cooked over an open fire in the yard of the hostel. The group then heard the Rev. Larry Lindemuth discuss "Leading a Christian Life." They then read the Book of First Timothy, individually, and held a group discussion led by Mrs. Hugh Colan.

A recreation period followed, and the group then resumed the planning session.

In the morning, breakfast was served by Mrs. Robert Smith, assisted by the young people. After the hostel was cleaned, the group returned to their homes.

Attend

Attending were Gerald McLain, Diane Egert, Nan Egert, Jane Beehn, William Smith, Shirley Smith, John

Hazelton, Martin McLain, Douglas Smith, James Hinton, Joan Bancroft, Carol Houck, Bob Voeste, Donna Bartleson, Mrs. Hugh Colan, Mrs. Willard Croft, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Fred Bancroft, the Rev. Larry Lindemuth, and the Rev. Arthur B. Campney.

While at the hostel, the group was joined by Marvin Reese, former LaAnna Hostel supervisor, and three youngsters with whom he made a pilgrimage to Europe last Summer. They showed colored slides of churches they visited on their tour.

Time Has Come To Take Investment Firms To Task

By William A. Doyle

THE TIME has come once again to take the nation's investment companies to task because of the information (or lack thereof) that is found in the reports sent to shareholders.

Surely, a shareholder of either an open-end (mutual fund) or closed-end investment company should expect to find out at a glance, exactly how his investment has fared in the period covered by a report.

He expects (and is entitled) to learn whether the asset value per share rose or fell in the period under review.

He expects (and is entitled) to learn whether the asset value per share rose or fell in the period under review.

Dozens of funds and closed-end companies are now in the process of preparing their quarterly reports for the three months ended Sept. 30.

If the reports follow a pattern that has become all too evident recently, the shareholders will probably have to thumb through a number of pages to find any reference to per share asset value performance.

Why? Because the asset value per share of most funds and closed-enders dipped in the Sept. 30 quarter. This was a natural enough. Securities prices took a bad slide during those three months. As the market values of the investments they hold declined, so did the values of investment company shares.

When asset values are up, the funds and closed-enders usually brag about it in prominent places in their reports to shareholders. When asset values are down, the per share asset value performance is usually buried someplace in very small type.

In some cases, the only way to get a comparison is to figure it out, by much arithmetic. Even then, it is sometimes necessary to get hold of the last previous report from the same outfit to find out if per share net asset value was up or down.

It's easy enough for professional investors, analysts, bankers, newspapermen and others to get comparative figures from the standard statistical reference books.

But the average investor doesn't have a financial library at his disposal. He should not be saddled with the chore of figuring how his investment has performed.

The least that an investment company shareholder should be entitled to is a report showing the asset value per share at the end of the period under review, compared with the end of the previous reporting period, the year-ago period and the end of the previous fiscal year.

This information should be spelled out in big, bold type in a prominent place in reports to shareholders.

Many investment company management people will tell you that their shareholders are smart. The same executives will turn around and insult their shareholders' intelligence by putting out reports that don't really report on the thing about which the shareholders are most interested.

The investment company industry has always claimed that it lives in "a goldfish bowl" open to public and official observation.

As the reports for the Sept. 30 quarter roll in, we'll find out whether or not that goldfish bowl is clouding over.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

A Colonial Designed With Precision

THIS colonial was designed with care and precision. Every part and section is properly proportioned and fits into one efficient living scheme. Three zones readily identify themselves for convenient, comfortable and care-free living. They cover relaxing, working and sleeping.

Exterior is a harmonious blend of brick, wood siding and board and batten. Of special significance is the attached garage. In addition to adding length to the overall dimensions, the garage and its extended roof lines shelters the grade level front porch. Note also that this colonial has no boxy effect characteristic of the average two-story design.

There are four rooms, a lavatory, two closets and two stairways on the first level. All are directly accessible from the front entrance. To the left is the relaxing zone. Natural light floods the living room from the forward picture window and two units on the side wall.

Focal point of this well-proportioned room is the flush fireplace styled in the colonial manner with marble mantel. The designer refers to the room behind the living room as a den. It could also be an excellent downstairs bedroom for an aged parent or relative. An adjoining terrace is separated only by a sliding glass door unit.

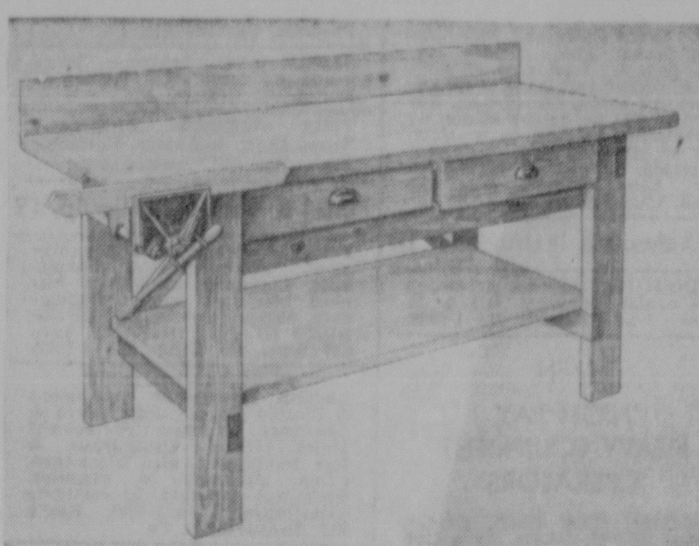

Kitchen and dining area occupy the working zone. The dining area has over 100 sq. ft. of space and plenty of wall area for interesting and varied furniture arrangements. Featured room in the home is the kitchen. Cupboards and counters form a step saving 'U' with the sink positioned under the back wall window. There's plenty of space remaining for a breakfast nook. The side entrance leads to a covered porch between the garage and house.

Four master size bedrooms and two baths occupy the upstairs or sleeping zone. Note that each bedroom has two facing windows for cross ventilation. Wardrobe facilities are well above average with the master bedroom possessing a bonus feature in the form of cedar closet.

Access to the smaller bath is restricted to occupants of the two front bedrooms. It contains a shower plus vanity table with mirror. A well proportioned linen closet is located in the hallway.

This plan conforms to general FHA, VA and Building Code requirements. Included with this plan you receive Specification Guide, Material List and Conversion Detail Sheet. Your builder or material supplier can give you the average cost per square of cubic ft. in your area.

Complete Building Plan, including Detail Sheet, Material List, and Specification Guide for Des. No. H-572 may be purchased for $9.75 for first set; 2 for $18.25; 3 for $26.25; or 4 for $33.75. You may also purchase The Daily Record Plan Book showing 71 designs for 75c postpaid. Address all questions and orders to HomeGraf Home Plan Dept., The Daily Record, Warren, Michigan.

Construct A Workbench At A Very Low Cost

FEW OF US realize that getting started is frequently the hardest part of any job. It's only natural to subconsciously reject doing something when we don't know where we can find the necessary tools or have a convenient place to work. That's why a workbench is so important.

While this rugged six foot bench would be costly to buy, it can be built from stock-size lumber at surprisingly low cost. All materials specified on the pattern are stock-size and obtainable at lumber yards everywhere.

Construction is so simplified anyone can build it; using only hand tools. The full size pattern offered below assumes you have never built a workbench, and contains step-by-step directions everyone can follow. To further simplify construction, location of screw and bolt holes are shown in the respective position on each pattern.

Two different size benches can be built from this pattern. One for adults, the other is just right for youngsters. The list of materials tells what to buy for each size workbench.

Since every home needs a workbench this project offers good "part time business opportunities." Make up a sample of both the adult and child size, then show them to your friends and neighbors. Before you realize it you'll be turning spare time into income.

Send 50c in coin or money order for Workbench, Pattern No. 15 to The Daily Record, P. O. Box 215, Pleasantville, New York. Send additional 35c for 64 page catalog illustrating over 300 other build it yourself projects.

Insulation Investment In New Home

ADEQUATE insulation installed during construction is an investment that will pay dividends throughout the life of a house. The dividends are maximum comfort and minimum bills for heating and air conditioning. They will more than compensate for the original investment in mineral wool.

Savings realized by thoroughly insulating a house during construction include the following:

1. Lower fuel bills. Mineral wool in ceilings, walls, and floors over unheated areas blocks heat any leaks yet, but I understand that this condition can result in damage from rainwater. Can I fix this brickwork myself and, if so, can you tell me how to go about it?

Answer: You are wise in correcting this condition before leaks occur. Yes, you can handle the job yourself provided you take a little trouble to do it correctly. This is what is known as pointing, sometimes called tuck pointing. You will need a mortar mix that contains lime, which delays the setting and thus prevents shrinkage. Using a cold chisel and a hammer or an old screwdriver, remove all loose mortar without dislodging any of the mortar that is still solid. Soak the cavities thoroughly and pack new mortar into them with a pointing trowel or similar tool. Use the end of the trowel to indent the joints slightly to aid in shedding rain water. This is a bit tricky, but merely follow the way in which the mortar is packed in the joints between the other bricks. If any of the mortar gets on the outside of the bricks, wipe it off instantly with a wet rag, which should be kept handy during the entire operation. It is necessary to wet down the joints at least once a day for several days. Don't spare the water — and soak the surrounding bricks at the same time.

Question: We want to repaint the metal cabinets in our kitchen. What kind of paint should we use?

Answer: Use a semi-gloss or gloss enamel, depending on whether you like a moderately shiny or very shiny finish. If the old paint still has a gloss to it, it must be removed before the new paint is applied. This can be done by sanding, steel wooling or putting on a special liquid designed for that purpose. If the old paint is worn down to the metal, it should be primed with an anti-corrosive metal primer before applying the enamel.

Question: We recently bought a house with an FHA-insured mortgage, having our purchase on the fact that an FHA appraiser found the house in good condition. Now we find termites in the place — and the exterminator says they apparently have been there for some time. Is there any action we can take against the FHA for not discovering the presence of the termites?

Answer: A Federal Circuit Court of Appeals in North Carolina recently upheld a Federal District Court decision holding the FHA responsible for losses incurred by home buyers relying on faulty appraisals. But I would not dare comment about your specific case. Only a lawyer can advise you.

Question: In looking over the side of our house the other day, I noticed that the mortar between a few of the bricks is starting to pull away a little. We haven't had paint or a clear lacquer. It must be remembered that clear lacquer enables the metal to keep its original appearance. However, unpigmented coatings of this type do not have the life of ordinary paints for exterior exposure and thus will have to be renewed in a shorter period of time.

While factory-baked aluminum finishes hold up for a considerable period of time, they also may require refinishing. If the surface is still smooth and glossy, it should be roughened with steel wool or sandpaper to provide proper adhesion.

THE typical purchaser of a backyard swimming pool pays 10 percent down and finances the balance over a period of five years. This information comes from Joseph C. Ekkers, head of the pool financing department of an installment financing company. Ekkers predicts that the number of American families owning their own swimming pools will climb to more than 225,000 this year, up more than 55,000 from 1959.

Panel Doors Fit Era Of Design

DOORS are functional facets of the personality of a home. Carefully chosen, they can give a house the warm look of Colonial architecture or the cool air of contemporary design.

Interior and exterior panel doors of ponderosa pine come in designs to fit all periods of decor. For example, a door with six panels—two small and four large—is one of many authentic reproductions of Colonial doors. Another with three large horizontal panels suggests contemporary architecture.

Whatever the period of a house, panel doors to accent its character are available in stock from building material dealers.

New Kitchen Combines The Old-Modern Look

THE OLD fashioned look in kitchens is making a comeback. Kitchen appliances are up-to-date to be sure and new colors are vivid, but the traditional look is the aim of many homemakers who are redecorating or moving into new homes.

Dull-finished wooden cabinets have been popular for a few years and now there is a growing trend to the hand-rubbed hand-crafted look in cabinets. Colorful effects are achieved with tiles, culinary ware, old wall art such as reproductions of antique cookie cutters. The sterile looking kitchen is definitely passe.

Exotic colors in ceramic tile are making decoration news. Violet, regal blue, tangerine are some of the new hues that are providing inspiration in color schemes. There are new additions in the pink and red group—cherry and vermillion. Decorated tiles include star

ON THE HOUSE

WHEN MOST of us think of aluminum, we think of a metal with a silvery-like coating. But more and more, aluminum is taking on a variety of colors. In addition to the quantities of aluminum now being sold with a factory-baked finish much aluminum already in use is being painted, both for decorative purposes and to give added protection against corrosive conditions.

For old aluminum, the only preparation required is the removal of loose surface dirt by brushing or light sanding. However, if there is any oil or grease on the metal, it should be taken off by wiping with mineral spirits.

Any conventional quality exterior metal or wood primer can be used as the first coat, followed by one or more coats of any exterior paint or enamel suitable for wood or metal. Where an extremely corrosive atmosphere is present, as in certain coastal

Have Market Value

By William A. Doyle
Q. A relative of mine died recently. His estate includes a large number of shares of Ford Motor of France stock. Are these shares worth anything?

A. Yes, they do have a market value. The latest quotation I was able to get was about 70 cents a share.

Ford of France was merged into Simca, the big French automobile company, in 1954. Simca issued shares of its own stock in exchange for Ford of France stock.

However, not all Ford of France stockholders accepted the Simca exchange offer. Your late relative was evidently one of those who held on to his Ford of France shares.

The Ford of France shares may still be exchanged for Simca shares. The exchange offer is still open. Or, the Ford of France shares may be sold in the open market.

Situations such as this are not unusual following the merger of one company into another through the exchange or purchase of stock.

For this reason, anyone who owns stock of one company that has been merged into another company should check up on the market and - or exchange value of the stock he holds.

Q. I read recently that Capitol Records declared a dividend on its common stock. I thought that Electric & Musical Industries bought out Capitol Records. But I must be misinformed. Can you set me straight? Where is Capitol Records stock listed?

A. Electrical & Musical Industries, at last reports, owned 96.4 per cent of Capitol Records outstanding common stock. That left about 22,000 shares still owned by other people. Capitol Records recently made an offer to buy in those 22,000 or so shares, at $41.50 a share. The results of the offer have not been announced as yet.

Capitol Records is still a corporation. As such, dividends are declared on its common stock. Capitol Records stock is not traded on any stock exchange. It is traded in the over-the-counter market.

Q. A recent column you wrote might give people the idea that it is impossible to buy stock in Western Electric Co. I happen to know that this stock is traded in the over-the-counter market. Please be exact.

A. OK, let's be exact. Western Electric has 17,253,702 shares of common stock outstanding. America Telephone & Telegraph Co., its "parent company," owns 99.82 per cent of those shares. That leaves some 30,000 shares of Western Electric owned by others.

If you want to buy some Western Electric stock, you can. It has been quoted recently at from $23 to $260 a share.

Q. Please settle an argument. What is the correct dividend now being paid every month on Federal National Mortgage Assn. (Fanny Mae) common stock? Is it 13 cents or 23 cents?

A. It's 23 cents a month, making a total of $2.76 a year. This is one of the relatively few stocks on which dividends are paid every month.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Opposition Of Catholic Cubans Rises

HAVANA (AP)—Roman Catholic opposition to the leftward lunge of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government mounted yesterday. It came with the appearance of another pastoral letter accusing the nation's Communists of trying to destroy Catholic influence "by leaps and bounds."

The letter, ordered read Sept. 24 in all the churches of Oriente Province, was signed by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Enrique Perez Serantes, archbishop of Santiago, who demanded that Catholics and non-Communists be guaranteed their full rights.

It accused Communists of defiling churches by "pretending to defend interests never violated by Catholics."

The letter said it is clear that Communists propose to destroy Catholic influence in Cuba "not step by step but by leaps and bounds."

Bishop Perez Serantes said his demand for full rights for Catholics was made in view of the clear Communist objectives regarding the Roman Catholic Church in Cuba.

This was understood to mean protection for churchgoers who have expressed fear of personal harm because of recent clashes in church areas between anti-Communists and clubwielding gangs said to be organized by Communists. The Castro government has charged that the churches were being used by counterrevolution-aries to organize resistance and sabotage.

Although the letter was read more than a week ago, copies did not become available until Tuesday. The letter was the second of its kind signed by the aging Msgr. Perez Serantes.

New track-to-body proportion! The track is the width between the wheels. Pontiac is the only Wide-Track car. Body width is reduced, shaving side overhang, balancing more weight between the wheels. Best relationship of body width to wheel width ever tailored. Lean and sway are ancient history.

Announcing the new Pontiac Trophy V-8 Engine! We've improved the engine the experts said was perfect. New fuel induction system saves gas by using more air in the gasoline mixture. This makes the engine breathe more efficiently, giving you better acceleration. Eleven versions to choose from. Horsepowers range from 215 to 348. For best economy, specify the Trophy Economy V-8. Its lower compression ratio lets you use regular gas.

More headroom, legroom, footroom for greater comfort! You'll take great comfort in the extra roominess we've built into the '61 Pontiac. Seats are higher, yet there's more clearance beneath the steering wheel and more headroom over your head. There is more legroom, more footroom. Doors are wider and designed to swing open farther.
